SEYMOUR DAILY REPUBLICAN

VOLUME XXXV NO. 71 SEYMOUR, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1916 PRICE TWO CENTS

SECOND CHOICE VOTES TO DECIDE SHERIFF'S RACE

MANN KEEPS LEAD ON FIRST CHOICE

Tabulation of Vote by Canvassing Board Completed Late This Afternoon—Computing Totals.

SEVERAL CONTESTS ARE CLOSE

Final Outcome of Races Will Not be Known Until the Official Vote is Compiled.

Complete unofficial returns of the vote for sheriff on the Democratic ticket show that while Knowles D. Mann, of Jackson township, has a lead of thirty-nine over E. B. Ball, of Brownstown township, on first choice votes. Mann does not have a majority of all votes cast for the candidates for sheriff. This means that the second choice votes will be the determining factor in the final settlement of the contest. It is apparent from the tabulated vote of twenty-seven precincts that comparatively few second choice votes were cast. Mann's friends feel confident of his ultimate success in the race and Ball's supporters say they have every reason to believe that the official count will show that he has the nomination by a safe lead. J. T. Abell, of Jackson township, the third man in the race with a vote of 414 declares that he received more second choice votes than other candidate and believes he will land the place.

The unofficial vote for sheriff on the Democratic ballot follows: Mann 499; Ball 460; Abell 414; Corman 323; Edinger 317; Smallwood 298; Hays 292; Sneed 185; Wheeler 133; Bruning 120; Beldon 78.

As Beldon received the lowest number of first choice votes he will be the first to be dropped in the elimination process. The second choice votes that were recorded by the voters who supported him for first choice will be given to the candidates for whom they were cast. When the second choice vote is being used to decide the contest the candidate finally receiving a majority of votes cast for the last candidates in the running at that time will be declared nominated. If no candidate with the use of the first choice votes get a majority then the lowest man will be eliminated on each count until but two are left. The one receiving the majority of the two remaining will be declared nominated.

A different procedure is used in determining a state or national contest when second choice votes are included in the finals. The attorney-general has held that the successful candidate must receive a majority of all the first and second choice votes cast for the candidates considered when the count is made. After each count the low man is dropped until one should receive a majority of the total number of votes cast.

It was impossible to secure accurate returns in the contests for county auditor and commissioner until the official totals are compiled by the canvassing board. Incomplete tables showing the standing of the contests for the Democratic nomination for auditor gave Luedtke a lead of from 600 to 750. At the auditor's office this afternoon it was stated that the exact figures could not be given, as no attempt had been made to tabulate the incomplete returns when it was evident that Luedtke was leading by a safe majority.

The race for commissioner in the second district was one of the closest in the county. It was stated this afternoon that figures compiled by friends of Dan Walker showed that he had a lead of one hundred or more over George Schrier. Schrier and Charles Adams, of Redding township, are running neck and neck it was reported this afternoon. Second choice votes will be required to decide the contest.

The canvassing board worked through the night and expects to spend another night in session before the complete returns are tabulated and added. It was stated today that one hour is required to tabulate the vote of each precinct.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the board was tabulating the vote of the last of the thirty-four precincts in the county. Immediately afterwards the clerks began to add the total vote for each candidate. Adding machines were used for this purpose and it was not believed that the final results would be delayed long.

After the first choice votes are added the second choice votes will be considered if they are required to determine the outcome of any race. Unabated interest is shown in the race for sheriff on the Democratic ticket as the second choice votes may change the standing of the candidates as announced on first choice. It is believed the entire official vote can be completed before morning. Possibly the canvassing board may adjourn before midnight.

The nomination of Albert Luedtke for auditor over E. L. Jennings, is assured as is that of Henry Albering for treasurer

Jackson county is one of the last counties to file complete returns. The headquarters of the candidates running throughout the state have kept the long distance telephone lines busy trying to get unofficial information in order to check up their records. It is stated that at noon today only 730 precincts in the state had not yet reported.

ELSNER LEADING ON FIRST CHOICE

Unofficial Returns Show that He Received 1,427 Votes in This County—Hays Second.

PARKS CARRIES CLARK COUNTY

Believed that Second Choice Votes will Have to be Counted to Determine Fianl Outcome.

Unofficial returns indicate that Edward P. Elsner, of this city, has been renominated as candidate for joint senator from Jackson, Scott and Clark counties on the Democratic ticket. Reports from all precincts in this county show that he had a plurality of 1,123 votes over the other candidates for the same office. In Clark county, Parks was given a plurality of 416 votes. This is Park's home and it was expected that he would lead the ticket in the race there.

Noble Hays lead the ticket in Scott county, receiving 463 votes. Elsner was second with 205 votes. Hays lives at Scottsburg. The vote in Scott county was: Elsner 205; Gray 171; Hays 462; Parks 134.

In this county the vote for Democratic senatorial candidates was: Elsner 1,427; Gray 388; Parks 361; Hays 474. The returns from Clark county have not been received and it

ALL READY FOR THE REFEREE'S WHISTLE

Eleven High School Basket Ball Teams Will Fight It Out For Supremacy Friday and Saturday.

FIRST GAME AT 2 P. M. FRIDAY

Visiting Players and Rooters Expected to Arrive Tomorrow Morning—Locals Tipped to Win.

The stage is all set for the second annual district tournament of high school basket ball teams, and everything is in readiness for the referee's whistle which will send the Scottsburg and Vevay teams off in the first game of the tournament at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Immediately after this game the Seymour and North Vernon teams will take the floor in what will be their third encounter this season. At 4 o'clock Osgood and Moorefield will get together in the last game of the afternoon. In the evening, Madison and Milan are scheduled to mix at 7:30 and at 8:30 Austin and Freetown will play. Crothersville, the other team to play here, will not get to start until Saturday morning, when they will play the winner of the Scottsburg-Vevay game.

The visiting players and rooters are expected to commence arriving in the city tomorrow morning. They will be met by local high school students and taken to the high school building where they will be assigned to rooms. The members of the visiting teams are to be furnished with their room and meals while they are in the city.

The local team is going into the tournament fully expecting to win, but intends to put up its strongest game and will not be caught napping, according to Coach Hendershot and the players. They expect the game with North Vernon to be their hardest fight and will work hard to win this game by a good score. As they have two decisive victories over North Vernon to their credit, it appears that they should have little trouble repeating.

Leroy Cooke and J. M. Thurber, both of Franklin, will referee the contests. Both are experienced basket ball men, Thurber is athletic director at Franklin College.

The season's record of the local team shows that out of fifteen regularly scheduled games, ten were won and five were lost, giving them an average of .667 on the season. The locals totaled 550 points against 375 for their opponents. Southport's big team was the only team that was able to win decisively over the Seymour quintet, having two games to their credit. The Southport team is expected to show up strong in the contest for state honors.

BOY'S LIFE SAVED BY RUBBER COLLAR

Two Shots Fired on Clay M. Everhart, Aged 15, by Unidentified Party, Wednesday Night.

ONE BULLET WHIZZED BY HEAD

Second Shot Tore Collar from Lad's Neck but Did Not Injure Him —Investigation Made.

A rubber collar worn by Clay M. Everhart, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Everhart, Seventh and O'Brien streets, saved his life Wednesday night when he was fired upon by an unidentified man. Two shots were fired. The first sped by the lad's head and the other hit his collar near the button on the neckband. It forced its way through both laps of the collar, traveled several inches around the shirt band and then turned outward, breaking a hole in both layers of the collar. The neck band was torn showing the route taken by the pellet of lead. The collar was torn from the boy's neck. It was turned over to the police department and is evidence that had the bullet hit the boy's head he doubtless would have been killed.

According to Everhart's story to the police who were summoned after he reached home, he was on his way home about 6:30 o'clock. The electric street lamps had just been lighted. Just before the boy reached the Southeastern Line crossing he was startled to hear a bullet whiz past his head . Involuntarily he turned towards the direction of the pistol report and saw a man standing near a tree. The man again raised his arm and fired the second shot just as the boy turned his head. The bullet hit the collar just at the side of the button in the neckband of the shirt.

When young Everhart realized that the man was trying to fire on him he started to run towards his home. The would-be assassin immediately took to his heels and ran in the opposite direction. After the lad reached home he telephoned to the police station and the call was answered by Policeman Stewart who made an investigation but was unable to find anyone in that neighborhood who answered the description given by Everhart.

As the boy was only about fifteen feet from the man he was able to get a good general description of him. He said the man who fired the shots was of very small stature, probably not more than five feet and three or four inches. He wore a long black raincoat or overcoat and a broad brim hat.

Everhart thinks the man must have

NEW'S LEAD OVER WATSON CONTINUES TO INCREASE

M'CORD MAINTAINS LEAD FOR REPUBLICAN SHERIFF

Chief of Police will be Nominated in Primary, According to Unofficial Figures.

It was conceded today that Chief of Police McCord has won the nomination for Republican candidate for sheriff. Although the Republican vote is far from complete enough returns have been received from the various thirty-four precincts throughout the county to show that he is far in the lead of J W. Cunningham, second man, and that he will receive more than a majority of all the votes cast. Several precincts from all sections of the county have been received which show that McCord maintained the lead which he established when the first returns were filed.

Freetown precinct of Salt Creek township gave McCord 27 votes, Cunningham 4, and Cosby 5. West Owen gave McCord 8, Cunningham 1, and Cosby 7. This was Cosby's own precinct Twenty-one precincts unofficially reported this afternoon gave McCord about 575 votes, Cunningham 182, and Cosby was running third .

Unofficial returns also show that O. O. Shortridge is running ahead of Isaac Smith for the nomination for auditor on the Republican ticket. The exact figures cannot be compiled until after the official total are announced by the canvassing board.

KAISER DECLARES WAR ON PORTUGAL

Action Based on Act of Portugal in Seizing German Merchantmen Without Notice.

ALLEGES TREATY VIOLATION

Demands of Germany to Release the Ships Was Flatly Refused by Portuguese Government.

By United Press.

Berlin, Mar. 9—Germany today declared war on Portugal and the Portuguese government became the fourteenth involved in the world conflict.

The German minister at Lisbon today notified the Portuguese government of the declaration pending the official document to the foreign minister with the remark:

"The German government therefore now considers herself from this date at war with Portugal."

The German declaration was based on the act of Portugal in seizing without previous notice German merchantmen in Portugal ports. This action, Germany charged in a sharp note of protest, violated the existing commercial treaties before Germany and Portugal and offered evidence that Portugal is "a vassel of England."

DAN WALKER SUCCESSFUL IN COMMISSIONER'S RACE

George Schrier Gets 833 Votes and is Low Man—Result Depended on Second Choice Votes.

Dan Walker, of Hamilton township, has been nominated commissioner in the Second district on the Democratic ballot, according to unofficial figures which have been carefully compiled after comparison with the official returns.

The standing of the candidates on first choice votes was:

Walker 984; George Schrier, of Jackson township, 833; Charles Adams, of Redding township, 896.

In considering second choice votes Schrier was dropped. Out of Second choice votes recorded by those who voted first choice for Schrier 92 went to Walker and 93 to Adams. This gives Walker a total of 1,076 and Adams 989.

DEFEAT ADMITTED BY RUSHVILLE MAN

NEW GETS TWELFTH DISTRICT

Watson Denounces Circular Distributed in Northern Indiana—Other Results in State.

Bulletin.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, March 9—Returns from 2,892 precincts in the state late this afternoon increase New's lead to a plurality of 9,817.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, March 9—That James E. Watson, though defeated at the primary, may go before the Republican state convention April 5 and make a bitter fight for the nomination for United States senator was intimated at his headquarters this afternoon.

This indication was given soon after the appearance of an informal interview given by Watson at Rushville in which he declared that his organization was paralyzed the day before the primary by "a slanderous circular" widely distributed in the twelfth district which stated that Watson once said in a speech "a dollar a day and a pot of beans is enough for any laboring man."

Watson men about headquarters said Watson had refrained from making a personal fight before the primary but that "certain things had occurred" which might cause him to make a different sort of fight between now and the convention.

Watson admitted that New would get a plurality but said he had depended upon a substanitial lead in the twelfth district. New won that district.

Late today reports from 2,794 precincts gave:

Harry S. New, 88,094.
James E. Watson 78,892.
Arthur Robinson 21,455.

J. A. M. Adair was leading Leonard B. Clore for the Democratic nomination for governor by 55,539 in 2,252 precincts.

James P. Goodrich lead with a majority of 29,766 for the Republican nomination for governor.

CLEAN UP WEEK.

With the appearance of the occasional spring day, the balmy air and the annual touch of spring fever our attention is directed to the Clean Up Campaign. For the last two years excellent results have been obtained in this city by the concerted efforts of the citizens. Hundreds of loads of debris have been hauled away, breeding places for germs and flies have been removed and the city put in a clean, sanitary condition before the hot months of the summer arrive.

Every citizen is interested to some degree in Clean Up Week. The owner of property views with satisfaction the work of himself and his neighbors which brings about better living conditions in the community in which he lives. He likes to see new fences take the places of the rickety, old structures which have been in a state of decay for years. He revels in the changed appearance of the shed and buildings when they are given a fresh coat of paint. He is happy when the vacant lot or the badly kept alley takes on an orderly appearance.

Clean Up Week is popular because every citizen is interested in his own home and his own neighborhood. Such a movement of this cannot be the most successful unless it is endorsed by a large percentage of the citizens. A badly kept lot in the center of a neighborhood which is in a clean, sanitary, orderly condition is unsightly and mars the appearance of the entire section of the city.

Because of the success of Clean Up Week in the past the demand is already made for the observance of the week again this spring. The movement will doubtless be sanctioned by the council for here-to-fore the city street department has done excellent work at this time of the year in removing trash and debris without charge to the property owners.

Clean Up Week is beneficial to the city not only because it improves its appearance but from the sanitary standpoint as well.

CHANGES MUST COME.

The next legislature will be called upon to make radical changes in the Indiana state-wide primary law which for the first time was placed in operation Tuesday. The law, of course, has some good features, but there are others which do not meet with the approval of the majority of the voters in the state. It is even possible that the true intent of the law is avoided by its working.

The Supreme court has held that the primary law was intended to protect the political organizations of the country. This is a nation of political parties and under such conditions these organizations must be safeguarded by the laws. But every voter has an inalienable right to vote for whom he pleases. And, if that voter is permitted to participate in the primary of any party without objection from a member of the party no one else ought to be allowed to interfere with the right of such voter.

Second choice voting has not been popular in any state where it has been adopted. Indiana voters are objecting to such system. Whether or not this provision will be changed depends upon the legislature. There are other features of the law which after a trial should be remedied. After the vote is tabulated and the excitement of the results has calmed leaders of all parties will give their serious consideration to the new measure in an effort to bring about the changes which are demanded by the majority of the voters—if the law is to remain on the statute books at all.

"A Shine in Every Drop"

BABY WEEK.

A minister writing for a state denominational paper criticizes the observance of "Baby Week," when, he says, 'some motherly maiden will make known her profound view as to how the little one should be brought up." He adds: 'If we are to give special interest to babies but one week in the year, then the race and the nation is doomed."

The above criticism of the movement to observe Baby Week was evidently written without a full knowledge of the purpose of the movement and after accepting the term "week" literally. The aim of Baby Week is not to give special attention to the baby for seven days in the year and then entirely neglect it the rest of the year, but to give mothers an opportunity to learn more about taking care of their little ones. The information they would receive during the special week will be valuable to them throughout the year. If the advice they receive is not heeded throughout the year and even for the six or eight years of the baby's life the movement is a failure.

One purpose of Baby Week is to give mothers information about the care of their infants in order to reduce the heavy death rate among babies. If the movement which has been inaugurated will save the life of one baby who would grow into a strong man or useful woman giving his or her share of service to humanity it is a success. But the observance of Baby Week ought to do more. The possibilities are great and its success depends upon the interest that is manifested by mothers.

We do not believe that the average minister looks upon this movement as a one week affair. They see it from the broad viewpoint. Safeguarding the baby's life and health is important. The very minister who criticizes Baby Week urges a large attendance of his congregation to the weekly prayer meeting service. He does this not because the members of his church should not live in accordance with the precepts of the church every night in the week but so they may be guided and directed in their manner of living. For the same reason Baby Week is observed annually. It is the time when mothers can be instructed and guided in the manner in which they are caring for their infant children and the movement is encouraged by those who are fully acquainted with its aims and purposes.

CROWDS THRONG COURT HOUSE ANXIOUS TO GET THE RESULTS

Candidates And Their Friends All Want to Get Results at First Hand —"Too Cold" at Dudleytown.

The court house at Brownstown was the mecca for scores of candidates and their friends yesterday and today, not to mention the many others who came merely out of curiosity or from force of habit, all anxious to know just "who was ahead," and what the chances of their particular man were.

Several of the candidates fixed up tally sheets of their own and sat at the telephone nearly all day yesterday endeavoring to get the complete figures on their race. The corridors were crowded, with here and there a group of friends gathered around one of the various candidates who was explaining just how it happened.

Upstairs in the court room, the only case set for trial Wednesday was continued, and none of the officials seemed to be much upset over not having to go ahead with the trial.

"Weather Too Cold."

Along about noon Wednesday, when no word had been heard from one of the Washington township precincts, one of the anxious candidates called up the election inspector.

'When you going to get your returns here?" he asked.

"Don't know yet," came the answer.

"Haven't you finished counting yet?" he was asked.

"O, yes, we finished early this morning, but we thought it was too cold to come over today. We'll be over some time tomorrow, I reckon."

EISNER LEADING ON FIRST CHOICE

is not known how large a vote Elsner received there.

The returns which have been filed at Senator Elsner's office today indicate that he has not received the nomination on first choice votes and it will be necessary to await the official returns on second choice votes to determine the outcome of the race. The Clark county election board has not completed the figures, it was learned today, and as they are not available here it may be Saturday morning before the final result is known.

Friends of Senator Elsner here believe that he will receive the bulk of second choice votes throughout the district which ought to easily insure his nomination. His big lead in this county on first choice votes gives him a decided advantage over Parks his next closest's competitor, before the second vote is considered. It is stated that the majority of the Elsner ballots cast in Jackson county did not designate second choice votes which is important in his race at this time.

PART OF NEW ALASKAN ROAD TO BE OPERATED BY FALL

One-third of the System Will be Completed and Ready for Service by November.

TO ENTER RICH COAL FIELDS

By United Press.

Washington, March 9—With a satisfactory labor supply, and good weather conditions, Chairman W. C. Edes of the Alaskan Engineering Commission hopes to have in operation nearly one third of the proposed government railroad in Alaska, by Nov. 1. It is the hope of the commission that the work on the railroad can be pushed to the Mantanuska coal field by fall. At the present the work is being held up while an emergency bill, asking for a two million dollar appropriation, is before Congress.

What the opening of this railroad will mean in the development of Alaska is merely a matter of conjecture, but the fact that a town of 1,500 has grown up at Anchorage, one of the terminals of the railroad, since the announcement of the route, indicates that the development of the north country will be great when the road finally is completed.

During the coming season it is planned to construct about 150 miles, which will comprise a connecting line between the Alaska Northern railway, now owned by the government, and the lines under construction, a branch line running from Anchorage into the Mantanuska coal fields and several miles of railroad running out of Fairbanks, the proposed northern terminal of the lines.

The construction of this railroad is a tremendous engineering task. At Broad Pass the lines will run through a stretch of twelve miles of almost solid rock, which will entail the building of numerous tunnels, the longest of which will be 1100 feet. At Broad Pass also there will have to be constructed a steel bridge 1500 feet in length and at Fairbanks several smaller bridges will be built.

Under favorable conditions, by May 1, 4000 men will be employed on the construction work, and more than a million dollars worth of machinery, taken to Alaska from the Panama Canal zone, will be in operation.

Although 22 miles of rail already have been laid between Mantanuska Bay and Anchorage, no attempt has been made to operate it. However, during the present winter the Alaskan commission has been operating the Alaska Northern, which the government has taken over, for a distance of 34 miles out of Seward. Three trains a week have been run over the line, and the operation has been a financial success, since the cost of maintenance is not included in the operating expenses. Before the Alaska Northern railway can be operated to the full extent of its 71 miles, a large amount of repair work will have to be done, and this will be undertaken during the coming summer.

If the present plans of the commission materialize and a force of 4000 men is put at work, it is believed a large part of this force will locate in Alaska and take advantage of its mineral and agricultural wealth, and thus the first step in the development of the country will have been accomplished.

AEROPLANES TO BE USED IN CARRYING MAIL IN ALASKA

Craft, Capable of Carrying 3,000 Ton Loads Will be Equipped for Service There.

By United Press.

Washington, March 9—With aeroplanes expected to cover 50 miles an hour, Alaska soon will have about the fastest mail service in the world. For the dog-teams, Yukon river barges, frontier railways and trials, the post office departemnt will substitute the latest type of planes, capable of carrying 3,000 ton loads, at more than express train speed.

Beside the seven planned Alaska routes, there is likely to be one in Massachusetts. Economy is the primary motive of the government, but in at least one of the Alaskan routes the delivery of a letter which now takes two weeks will be accomplished in 12 hours.

In the Massachusetts route—starting from New Bedford and serving the islands of Martha's vineyard and Nantucket—the big difficulty to overcome, said Second Assistant Postmaster Praeger today, will be fog. In Alaska, difficulty is expected in finding suitable landing places; in the cross-winds that sweep in and out of mountain ranges; and in the intense cold the aviator will be subjected to in certain seasons.

"But it is not the human factor which worries us most," continued Praeger. Your skilled aviator of today takes little account of wind and cold. An extremely dense fog will delay service some, probably.

"Another difficulty probably will be getting machines which will carry 3,000 pounds of mail. There are such machines on the European battle fields, but the demands of America may not have produced such giant craft."

Praeger has advertised for such machines and has appealed to the patriotic impulses of national aerial societies to show what American genius can do.

The main route in Alaska will be to Fairbanks, in the interior. Its mail now goes from the states to Skaway by boat, thence by rail, stage or dog-team to White Horse and the Yukon. The substitutes will be aero service from Valdez to Fairbanks direct, 358 miles.

In the Massachusetts route the planes will be used between mainland and the outlying islands, across stormy and treacherous reaches of water.

If these routes are successful, says Praeger, the opportunities for further use of aviation mail service are almost limitless.

VEGETABLE CALOMEL

Vegetable calomel, extract of the root of the old-fashioned may-apple plant, does not salivate. As a liver stimulator, it's great. It's a perfect substitute for ordinary calomel (mercury); in fact, it's better, because its action is gentle instead of severe and irritating—and it leaves no mean, disagreeable aftereffects. Physicians recognize this and prescribe may-apple root (podophyllin, they call it) daily.

Combined with four other standard, all-vegetable remedies, may-apple root may now be had at most any druggist's in convenient sugar-coated tablet form by asking for Sentanel Laxatives. If you forget the name, ask for the box that has the picture of the soldier on it.

These tablets are small, easy to take and are really wonderful little performers.

They quickly clean out the poisons that are causing you headache, constipation, sour stomach, biliousness, dizzy spells, bad breath and coated tongue.

They are mild. They never gripe. And they are a bowel tonic as well as a cleanser and liver regulator. A 10c box should last one several weeks. A Physician's trial package (4 doses) will be mailed you free if you write mentioning this advertisement. The Sentanel Remedies Co., 802 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

Basket Ball Notes.

The Methodists and Lutherans divided honors in the double header basket ball affair at the high school Wednesday evening, the Methodist Juniors walking away from the Lutheran Juniors, 59 to 4, and the L. S. A. S. team winning from the Methodist Seniors in a hotly contested game, 18 to 10.

In the first encounter the young Methodists displayed unusual team work and individual goal shooting ability, and scored almost at will. Not until the latter part of the second period did the Lutherans get a field goal.

In the big game the two fives played on practically even terms until the latter part of the second half when the Lutherans forged ahead and won out. Inability to hit the basket when opportunity presented itself was the chief cause of the defeat of the Methodists.

THREE AMERICAN SOLDIERS KILLED

One woman was among the dead civilians.

The United States troops after beating off the bandits pursued them southward, Col. Slocum reported. He did not give the names of any of the dead or wounded.

A special dispatch to the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad's office declared the Mexicans reported to be personally commanded by Francisco Villa who crept up on Columbus under cover of darkness and set fire to the railway depot and neighboring buildings. The United States troops with a machine gun beat the Mexicans off, according to the railroad office's report. The size of the body of bandits was not given but it is reported that Villa with several hundred men have been seen in the neighborhood.

Fifty to one hundred Villistas were killed or wounded according to the report of Colonel Slocum. Only the desperate bravery of the outnumbered American soldiers prevented a massacre greater than the slaughter of 18 helpless Americans at Santa Ysabel, Mexico January 10.

Three Americans Villa took prisoners before the raid on Columbus are reported to have been killed and their bodies burned.

Entering Columbus under the cover of darkness and protected by a ditch, the Villistas dashed into the heart of the town.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Children's Bureau and Baby Week

Julia C. Lathrop, Chief of Children's Bureau.

"Is Baby Week the business of a Government Bureau?" The observing taxpayer is perhaps asking this question.

Ever since last October when the General Federation of Women's Clubs announced its plan, an increasing proportion of the Bureau's office force has been detailed to the correspondence by the growing interest in the nation-wide observance of Baby Week.

The sociologist and the statistician will remind us that the Bureau was created to make investigations pertaining to the welfare of children and that Baby Week is not an investigation and is not statistics.

To all these groups we are accountable. What is our reply?

For the three years the Bureau has been in existence it has put a considerable share of its energy into a statistical study of the social and economic causes of infant mortality, planned with the greatest care and conducted by trained field agents with all possible precision. The results of this inquiry are being published, as the law requires, in a series of reports which consist of statistical tabulations accompanied by descriptive text.

There are many million fathers and mothers in the United States, including many of the best educated fathers and mothers, who have never read a statistical table and never will. Yet hidden within the figures of the Bureau's reports on infant mortality, the reading of which they will successfully evade, lie stern facts about the dangers which beset American babies.

These figures give a clue to the reasons why, on the great average, one baby in eight dies before the end of the first year of life. They show that this average obscures a wide gamut with comparative immunity from infant loss at one end and with fearful infant waste at the other.

If the Bureau is to investigate and to report as the law directs, then it must try to find ways of reporting which will be heard by the whole public which it was created to serve.

The popular methods of the Baby Week, which are those of all astute advertisers, form an invaluable method of reporting to the parents of this nation those standards of infant welfare which experts are endeavoring to make clear.

The Baby Week emphasizes the constructive side of infant care. It addresses not only individual parents but communities.

The best test of its value will be the work that follows it:

Undoubtedly every State Board of Health should secure what only six states have at present—a special division of child hygiene. No city or town should fail to provide instuctive nursing service and to pay constant heed to the problems of hygiene and sanitation, of proper housing and of recreation spaces, since all these immediately affect the welfare of infants.

There are 3,009 counties in the United States. In every county seat there should be a center for the health work of that county—a station for examining babies, and older children, and for furnishing expert advice for keeping them well—in short, a health teaching center.

We must have complete birth registration.

All these will be institutions for the common use—no more revolutionary, no more eleemosynary, than public schools and weather bureaus and agricultural experiment stations.

The New Zealand infant mortality rate is less than one-half of ours and is being further reduced.

Why take less pains for American babies than New Zealand bibies?

MUSHROOM SOUP

(Slovak style) — Soak one-fourth pound dry muchrooms in warm water about one hour, then wash well in several waters and put on to boil in enough water to cover well, adding one teaspoon salt and a whole onion. Let boil about five minutes. Now drain, cover well with cold water and boil without the onion three-fourths hour or until tender; drain again and save the stock. When mushrooms are cool, chop them until they are the size of a lima bean. Now brown level teaspoon of flour in about one and one-fourth tablespoons butter; when nice and brown add about one and one-half cups cold water and two tablespoons vinegar, put on fire and stir until it thickens. Add this to mushrooms and stock, stir up well and let everything come to boil for two or three minutes; add salt and pepper to taste and the soup is done. This recipe serves six people and costs about thirty-five cents. Mushrooms are about one dollar a pound.

Sweet sauce is made of one cup of sugar, tablespoon cornstarch, pint of cold water; after it cooks smooth, add piece of butter size of walnut and flavoring.

CHEESE SQUARES

Out of a pint of milk take enough to wet a quarter of a cup of flour and cornstarch, seasoned with half teaspoon each of salt and paprika. Add this to remainder of milk scalded in a double boiler. Stir constantly for twenty minutes. Add yolks of two eggs beaten up with quarter cup creamed butter and half cup grated cheese. As soon as these are cooked, turn into a shallow pan; when cold, cut in shapes. Lay these in baking pan apart from each other, cover thickly with grated cheese, reheat and brown in quick oven.

CHERRY CREAM PIE

One cup milk boiling hot; add a little soda, one cup canned sour cherries, one cup sugar, yolks of two eggs, two tablespoons flour. Make into a custard. Have a nice crust baked. Fill with custard. Beat whites of the two eggs, add to top and brown. If a pinch of baking powder is added while beating eggs, the frosting will be very light; add it after beating very stiff, then beat again.

MOCK BISQUE TOMATO SOUP

Half can tomatoes cooked until soft enough to strain. Add two tablespoons butter. Dissolve one tablespoon cornstarch in a little cold milk and stir slowly into one quart hot milk. Cook in double boiler five minutes. Season, add pinch of soda, and when ready to serve add strained tomatoes. If fresh tomatoes are used, have one and one-half cups when cooked.

BAKED STUFFED ONIONS

Select large onions of uniform size. Peel, cover with boiling salted water and simmer ten minutes. Drain, scoop out center of each onion and fill cavity with cold minced meat of any kind moistened with beaten egg and a little melted butter, and highly seasoned with salt and pepper. Place closely together in baking dish and bake in moderate oven half an hour. Serve with cream sauce.

CHICKEN PIE WITH OYSTERS

Clean and cook chicken whole until tender, then remove the bones. Drain liquor from oysters and look each one over carefully. Line a deep pan with a nice crust, put in a layer of oysters, then a layer of chicken; season each layer with salt, pepper and bits of butter; add a little of the oyster liquor and cream enough to moisten sufficiently. Bake. Serve with thin slices of lemon.

FRIED NOODLES

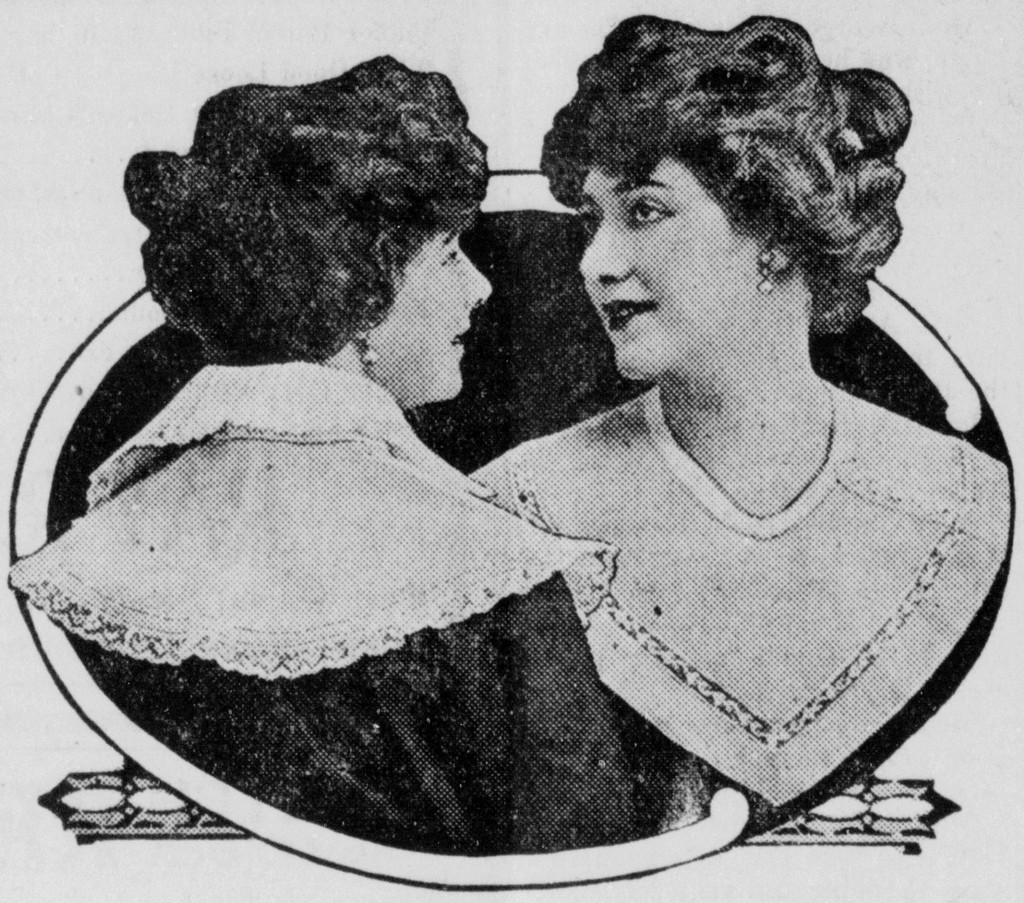
HAM FOR SUPPER

Chop boiled ham fine, season with mustard, pepper, beaten yolk of an egg and a little oil if desired.

Cape-Collars and Capes



Capes have become a fad and appear everywhere in smart spring styles. In tailored gowns, in suits and coats, and in dresses of all kinds, all sorts of variations of the original shoulder cape betray its influence on the mode. It bids fair to oust the high collar from frocks, only to capture them for its own. For many engaging little wraps for spring are merely capes, in one shape or another, joined to collarettes made of the same material.

Besides these frivolous and dressy little wraps there are innumerable cape collars of organdie or other sheer stuffs for indoor wear. Two of them are shown here. One is a dainty and demure looking furbelow with a plain band about the neck and a hemstitched edge. It fastens at one side with a row of small crocheted buttons and is ornamented by an insertion of narrow val lace very neatly set in about two inches from the edge.

At the left of the picture the cape of organdie joins a high turnover collar by means of a row of hemstitching. This collar is plaited across the back and has rather deep points at the front where it opens in a V at the throat. Val lace, having a square mesh, is set to the edges with scant fullness, and two rows of hemstitching are placed above it in the organdie. This collar fastens at the front with a single small pearl button.

Taffeta silk net, and crochet buttons are depended upon for the frilly capes for outdoor wear. They are made in black and of dark colors but often lined with shades of rose, yellow, green, or with gay, striped silks. Occasionally a small garment, which is partly bodice and partly cape, made of silk tops a dress like it in color.

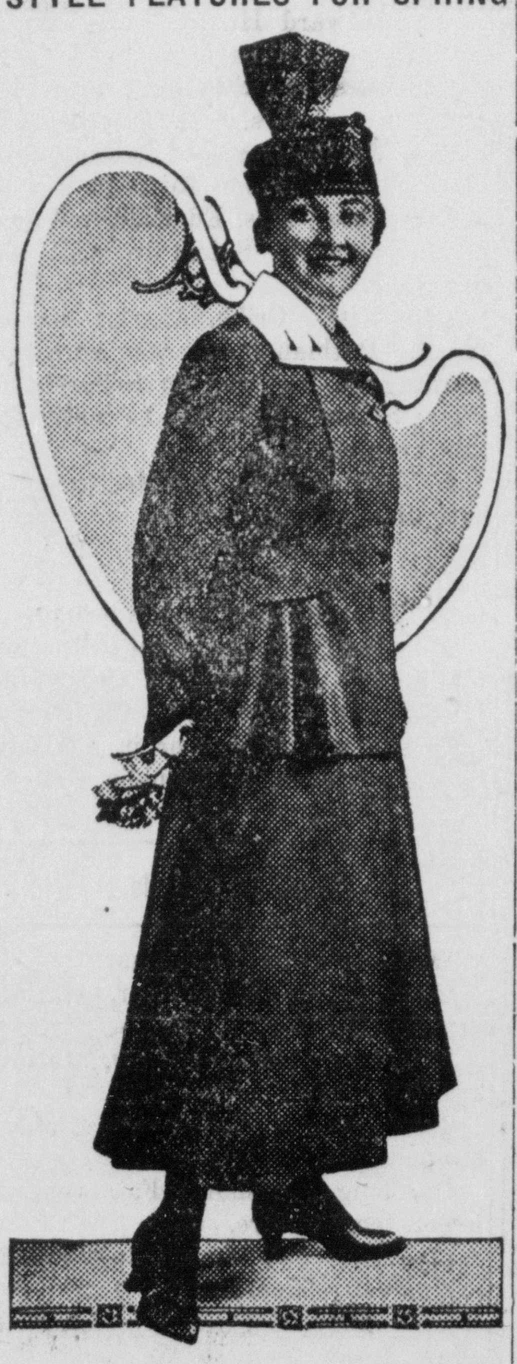
Indiana Child's Creed.

"Every child has the inalienable right to be born free from disease, free from deformity, and with pure, blood in its veins and arteries.

"Every child has the inalienable right to be loved; to have its individuality respected; to be trained wisely in body, mind and soul; to be protected from disease, from evil influences and evil persons; and to have a fair chance in life. In a word to be brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord.

"That state is delinquent which does not ceaselessly strive to secure these inalienable rights to its children."

STYLE FEATURES FOR SPRING



The elegance of the well-tailored street suit of plain cloth makes this model appeal to women of refined taste. Both the coat and skirt embody the accepted style features for spring, and the inlay of white broadcloth on collar and cuffs is a finishing touch of much distinction.

Women Who Lead the Way

Mrs. Josephine Lawrence—Peacemaker. (By Marie Dille.)

In this day when, according to the reformers, the divorce courts are working overtime, a woman in the profession of Mrs. Joseph H. Lawrence is a welcome and unexpected novelty. Mrs. Lawrence is an official home saver. Her occupation is keeping the dove of peace serenely hovering over ex-warring households.

For five years the title by which Mrs. Lawrence has been known in her home in Chicago, Ill., is "Superintendent of the Social Service Department of Cook County." Summed up in the terms of the day, she is a neutral board of arbitration for private misunderstandings.

All manner of cases of family discord come to the attention of Mrs. Lawrence. When possible she solves the difficulty before a divorce decree is granted and often the matter is settled after a full understanding between the warring factions has been reached. Sometimes it is merely the matter of a quarrel that threatens to wreck the matrimonial ship. She is tactful and persuasive and in cases of this nature seldom has difficulty in convincing the couple to meet each other half way.

In more serious cases of non-support she has the power of judge bestowed upon her by her county and her word is supreme. Her decrees are binding and imprisonment confronts the offender who disobeys them. About two hundred cases of this kind come before her every month. In most instances the disagreement is between husband and wife, although occasionally it is old people who have been neglected by those who are considered their lawful support or children are left destitute by selfish parents.

In eighty per cent. of these cases Mrs. Lawrence has successfully settled the controversy in such a way as to keep the families together, the children out of charitable institutions and old people out of infirmaries. A sum of over $5,000 is collected monthly by this department for the support of its charges.

The county has issued a bulletin explaining the efficiency of this department in checking the spread of pauperism. It is estimated that besides paying for itself, this office saves the county over $25,000 which would otherwise go to meet the expense of dependents. In a surprisingly great number of cases families that have been forcibly prevented from separating have become reconciled and peacefully reunited, returning later to thank Mrs. Lawrence. In a single hour she succeeded in adjusting seventeen family difficulties and reuniting the members. This is a somewhat greater number than the most efficient divorce court could produce in legal separations in the same length of time.

Another great good that this department has served is in meeting the legal difficulties of charitable institutions which, taken through the regular channels, cost a vast sum which may now be used for the support of the organization.

MARGARET MASON'S FASHION LETTER

(Written for the United Press.)

New York, March 9.—A cherry may play it three ways and still be well placed—in a pie, a cocktail or on milady's bonnet. All three are ideal settings for a cherry, but naturally the third is the charm. Just as every cloud has a silver lining, so does every smart spring hat have its first fruits and the cherry is the favorite of the bunch. Dame Fashion is masquerading as Pomona. In consequence, every peach, topped with a few cherries, goes around looking like a mixed fruit salad. It's quite all right if the peach confines the cherries that go to her head to the ones on her hat. If she lets the cherries go to her head she is apt to look more like a compote. See Webster's Unabridged:

"Compote:—A combination of stewed fruit." The shapes of the new hats—cunning little high crowned effects without brims, or the fetching little Directoire bonnets, lend themselves very prettily to the cherry habit. Following the cherry, the favorite fruits for hats are green and purple grapes, peaches, plums, strawberries, oranges, lemons and apples for daughters of Eve. Some of the big, flat garden hats have an array of fruit around their flat, plate-like brims, their vivid colors glowing against a background of glossy green leaves, for all the world like Mike the Dago's pushcart display.

But why scratch the rest of the 57 varieties off the sartorial menu? Surely a Cassava Chapeau, a Banana Bonnet or a Pineapple Picture Hat would be tasty little headpieces for the fruitful fashions.

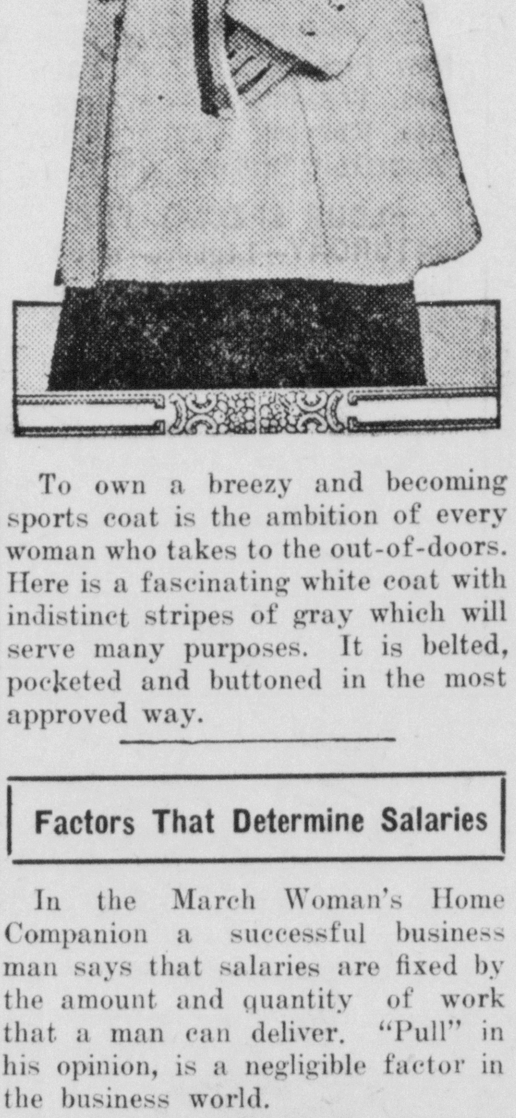
Just to what lengths can fruits go is best answered by the fact that not only do they grow on spring millinery, but on parasols, bags, umbrella handles, neck ruff, belts, sash ends, jacket lapels, blouses, frocks, negligees and even lingerie are clusters of them grafted.

The new lawns, organdies and spring silks are printed in fruit designs and even the newest jewelry preserves the peach, the plum, the cherry and the grape in gold and platinum, in enamel and precious stones.

Verily an up to date peach in a cherry hat and a pear of lemon kid gloves according to the currant modes, could never be a gooseberry in any crowd. Rather is she the apple of every male eye, with all of them plum crazy about her.

Don't boil meat over a strong fire, making the water gallop. It renders the meat tough and derives it of its nicest flavor. If allowed to gently simmer, double the time, and not boil up, it will be more tender and sweet. A quick fire coagulates and hardens the fibers of the meat.

NOVELTY CLOTH SPORTS COAT



To own a breezy and becoming sports coat is the ambition of every woman who takes to the out-of-doors. Here is a fascinating white coat with indistinct stripes of gray which will serve many purposes. It is belted, pocketed and buttoned in the most approved way.

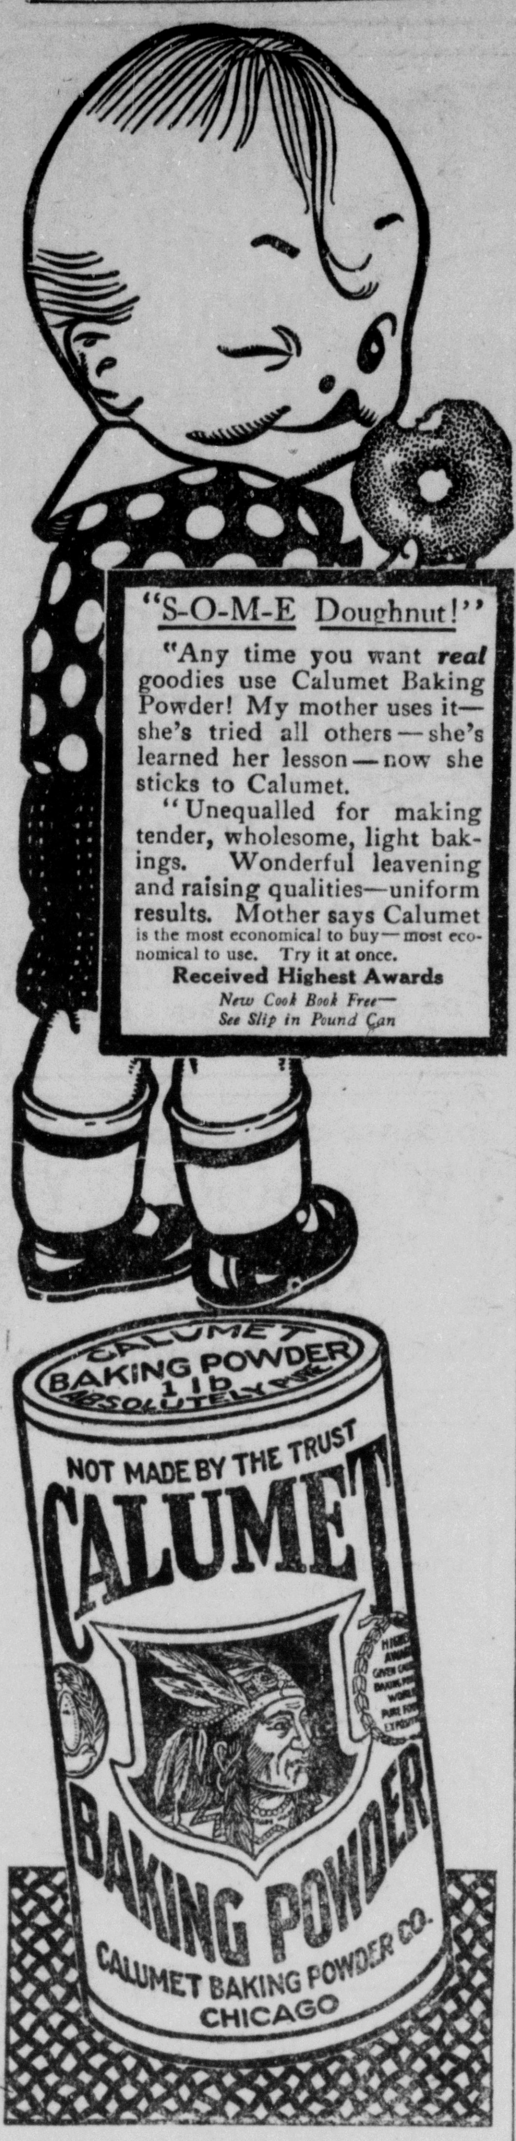
Factors That Determine Salaries

In the March Woman's Home Companion a successful business man says that salaries are fixed by the amount and quantity of work that a man can deliver. "Pull" in his opinion, is a negligible factor in the business world.

"And that applies to the man who is getting thirty thousand dollars a year just as truly as it does to the man who is getting thirty dollars a month. The only way that I can be paid more money than I am gettin is by delivering more work to my company than I am now delivering, or by showing my company how to save more money, and so have a larger profit at the end of the year."

Colors for Children

Brown is a particularly fashionable hue for little folks this winter, and the range is from reddish chestnut to deep Havana, and brown tones are suggested in red trimmed with skunk fur of gold-colored silk trimmed with seal. A smart coat for a small boy is of brown cloth with seal collar and cuffs and lining of scarlet pussy willow taffeta.



"S-O-M-E Doughnut!"

"Any time you want real goodies use Calumet Baking Powder! My mother uses it—she's tried all others—she's learned her lesson—now she sticks to Calumet.

"Unequalled for making tender, wholesome, light bakings. Wonderful leavening and raising qualities—uniform results. Mother says Calumet is the most economical to buy—most economical to use. Try it at once.

been lying down along the sidewalk as he was seen standing near the place where the boy had passed a few seconds before. The man evidently desired to conceal himself. The lad says that the report of the revolver was too loud for one of .22-caliber and probably not loud enough for the .38-caliber. He is of the opinion that a .32-caliber bullet hit him. He is at loss to account for the unusual occurrence and says that so far as he knows he does not have an enemy in the city and does not know of any boy who might desire to avenge any imaginary wrong in this manner. He told the police he was not alarmed over the shooting until after he reached home and found that the collar had been ripped from his neck and realized how close the bullet came to entering his neck or head.

An investigation is being made by the police but no clews had been unearthed today. The description given by Everhart is being used as the basis for the investigation. The boy can only account for the attack by the belief that he was mistaken for someone else. It is probable that the man was waiting for some one and because of the shadows was unable to recognize the boy.

CHAPTER XXXII

Alan did not draw rein until he reached the top of the bluff dividing the valley from West lake. Then for a moment he sat and stared down the long slope. There was a smell of moisture in the air. The valley, the whole world, was expecting, waiting for rain, and even as he stared the rain came in a fine, veillike mist that steadied the tones of earth and sky to one even shade of endless gray. Out of the gray came the click of iron on pebble. Alan recognized the quick, springy tread of a climbing horse. He turned and faced Clem. He felt the slow color rising in his cheeks and his hands trembled.

They did not smile at each other; they even forgot to say good morning. Alan licked his thin lips. They were as dry as ever they had been with fever. "Where's your hat?" he asked.

A flicker of amusement showed in Clem's eyes. She was quite calm and she could see that Alan was not, that he was biting his tongue at the feeble words he had saddled on a heavy moment. "Hats are for sunny days," she said. "I like rain on my head. Have you anything special to do? Don't let me bother you."

"No," stammered Alan, "nothing that can't be put off."

"Do you remember," Clem went on, "years ago I asked you to take me for a ride, and you said not then but sometime? I've never had my ride with you. I want it now."

Her eyes were fixed on his and held him. "I am ready," he said through dry lips.

She turned her horse and he followed. They rode in silence at a walk and then at a trot. Clem turned into a wood-road. Her horse broke into a gallop. She flicked him with her whip and his gathered limbs suddenly stretched out for a free run. The going was soft. Alan had fallen behind. Clots of mossy loam struck him in the face. Swaying branches showered drops of water on him. He lost his hat. Then his lips tightened, his eyes flashed and he began to ride. He was himself again.

He urged his horse forward, but he could not get on even terms; Clem held the middle of the narrow track. Suddenly they burst into the broad Low road. With a terrific clatter of flying stones and slipping, scrambling hoofs, they made the turn. Alan rode at last on Clem's quarter. "Clem," he cried, "stop! It isn't fair to the horses."

But Clem only laughed. Her slim body swayed to the bends of the road; her shoulders were braced; she leaned slightly back, steadying her horse with a taut rein. Alan tried to draw even, but every time he urged his horse into a spurt Clem's spurted too. Alan grew angry. He watched Clem's whip, but it never moved. He settled into the saddle and rode blindly. His horse must catch up or he would kill him. He was gaining. A moment more at the same pace and he could reach Clem's reins below her horse's neck.

Alan's face and hands were badly scratched, but he rode on doggedly. It never occurred to him to give up the chase. In the end he would catch up; he knew that, but what puzzled him was what he should do to Clem when he caught her. Anyone else, man or woman, he would give a taste of their own riding whip for their own good, but not Clem. Alan suddenly knew that there was something in Clem that a man could not break.

The wood-road made a gradual ascent that the willing horses took at a steady, hard gallop. They left the tree-line of the valley below them, scurried across an ancient clearing, pushed through brush and branches, and burst out on to the long, bald back of East mountain. Then came another clear run over crisp sod dangerously interspersed with wet, slippery stones and hindering bowlders.

At the highest point in all the countryside Clem suddenly drew rein and slipped from her horse before Alan could reach her. She stood with one arm across the saddle-horn and waited for him.

Alan threw himself from his horse and rushed up to her. His hands were itching to grip her shoulders and shake her, but he held them at his side. "What did you do it for?" he asked with blazing eyes.

Clem looked him over coolly. "Ever run after anyone before, Alan?"

"What?" stuttered Alan. He felt foundations slipping from under him. Here was a person who could look Ten Percent Wayne at his best in the eye and never turn a mental hair.

"How do you like it?" continued Clem in an even, firm voice. Then she turned her square back to the saddle and faced him fairly. "I'll tell you what I did it for. All my life I've been running after you. Last night I heard you packing. I knew what you were doing—you were getting ready to go away. Before you went I wanted you to run after me—just once. A sort of consolation prize to pride."

Alan's face hardened. "Stop, Clem. You can't talk like that to me and you can't talk like that to yourself." He looked at Clem and the blood surged into his neck and face. At that moment Clem was beautiful to him beyond the wildest dreams of fair women. She was dressed in a close-fitting long coat that buttoned down the front. Her riding skirt, of the same dark stuff, she had hitched up at one side to a silver hook. From under the raised skirt peeped a straight riding boot and on the heel of the boot was a tiny, right-angle spur. Alan's quick eyes hung on that spur; it explained the lead Clem had held through the headlong ride.

Clem's right arm was still hooked over the double horn of her saddle and her left hand holding a slim riding whip hung at her side. To the velvet lapels of her coat clung little drops of rain. Her hair was braided and firmly tied in a double fold at the back of her neck, but short strands had escaped from durance and played about her head. Her head, like the velvet lapels, was dusted with little silvery drops of water and little drops of water perched on her long, upturned lashes. Her cheeks were flushed, her bosom agitated, her lips tremulous. Only her eyes were steady.

Alan took off his coat and threw it over a rock. "Will you please sit down? I must talk to you."

Clem strode to another rock and sat down. "You are absurd. Your coat is as wet as the stones. Put it on." Alan hesitated. "Put your coat on."

Alan obeyed; then he sat down before her, but turned his eyes away and gazed rather vacantly over the whole wet world. "If ever two people have known each other without words, Clem, it's you and me. Never mind the grammar. Even unshackled words are a dribbling outlet for a full heart, and my heart's as full today with things I've never said to you as the clouds are with rain.

"Nature, taken by and large, is a funny outfit, and the funniest things in it are the ones that make you want to cry. The world sees a good man, clean and straight, married to a faithless woman and laughs. Men see a pure girl give her all to a cad, and they say, 'It's always the rotters that get the pick,' and they laugh too. But down in the bottom of our hearts we know that these things are things for tears."

"Yes, Alan," said Clem as he paused. She was no longer imperious, only attentive, with chin in hands and elbows on knees.

"You know me," went on Alan, "but there are things about me that you do not know—things below you that you have no understanding for, thank God. I don't even know how to picture them to you."

"Yes, Alan," said Clem softly.

FOURTEEN H. S. TEAMS WILL COMPETE AT GARY

Northern Indiana Quintets Expects to Take High Rank in Sectional Match.

By United Press.

Gary, Ind., March 9—Fourteen cities will be represented here in the sectional basketball meet beginning tomorrow, which will determine the representative which the "far northwest" will send to the state tournament at Bloomington. As in football when teams of this district demonstrated they classed with the best "downstate" teams, the winner of this sectional meet is expected to make a good showing at Bloomington.

Valparaiso will enter the tournament a strong favorite because of the season's fine record and the size of the players, but the winner will have no walkaway. Laporte is a strong contender.

East Chicago, Emerson, and Froebel teams of Gary, and South Bend are all teams that have made fine records and from the showing that Whiting has made since Porter Exton has taken charge of the team, that school also is a strong contender.

H. S. STUDENTS GIVEN CREDITS FOR DUSTING FURNITURE

Six Points Credited to Scholars Who Take a Bath and Retire Before 9 O'clock P. M.

By United Press.

Bellefontaine, O., March 9—If a boy or girl in the rural schools of Logan county brushes his teeth, takes a bath, retires before 9 p. m. and sleeps with the windows open, nine credit marks will be given him or her at school, six marks being for the bath and one mark for each of the other items.

If the pupil cleans a lamp, carries in two scuttles of coal, dusts the furniture, sweeps a room, makes a bed, washes the dishes, turns the cream separator, gathers the eggs, makes a bird mox or milk stool, other credit marks thereby are gained at school.

The plan is part of the home credit work system adopted in the rural schools of the county based upon the plan originated in California. The county board of education expects the scheme to vitalize the work of the school.

Cash prizes have been offered to the pupils in the rural schools by the county board for the best samples of letter writing, manual training, domestic science, seed corn testing, raising an acre of corn, etc. The prizes will be awarded on May 11, which is to be "Educational Day" and on which day there will be a spelling contest with cash prizes for all rural pupils in the county.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. , Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

STYLE PROBLEMS TO GET ATTENTION OF THE SHOEMAN

Indiana Retail Association to Meet in Annual Convention in Indianapolis.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 9—If milady's appetite for novelties continues to improve, the shoeman and the style problem are going to have to go to the mat in deadly earnest.

The Indiana Retail Shoe Association will consider the style problem at its convention March 15 and 16.

Several years ago a shoe manufacturer decided that the more styles he could bring out the more shoes he could sell and the scheme worked. Now all the manufacturers are bringing out more styles and yet again more styles and the retailer is buying a few at a time of all of them, so that he can supply every demand and not be overstocked when some one style goes "dead."

There is hardly a manufacturer of women's shoes in the country who is not making more novelties than he is staples, and there is not a retailer but observes the same proportions in his stock, it is declared. Milady is to blame, and the shoe retailers know it, but do not expect her desire for pretty boots to abate one jot. The new styles calling for higher skirts afford no hope, because it is recognized that the higher the skirts, the higher the boots must go to meet them.

CALVIN FLETCHER.

The existence of slavery in Virginia in 1821 caused a young lawyer who had been born in Vermont, but who had gone to the southern state to practice his profession, to leave there and seek a residence elsewhere. Indianapolis had just been selected as the site for the permanent capital of Indiana, and here young Fletcher, with his wife, settled in the fall of 1821. He is said to have been the first lawyer to practice his profession in Indianapolis. In 1825 he was appointed State's Attorney for the Fifth Judicial District. For seven years he was a member of the state senate. In 1834 he was one of the four persons appointed by the legislature to organize a state bank. For sixteen years he was president of the branch of the state bank at Indianapolis. He refused a position on the supreme court bench which was tendered him by Governor Noble. As a financier, Mr. Fletcher had few equals. He achieved unqualified success in farming, banking, and in the practice of law. He was a devout Christian, and for ten years superintendent of the Robert Chapel Sunday School. Oliver H. Smith has said that Calvin Fletcher did more to stamp society in Indianapolis with the true principles of civilization and Christianity than any other man living or dead.
